Time for Life: The Surprising Ways Americans Use Their Time

While other researchers have relied on published statistics and surveys that ask their informants to recall numbers of hours worked in an earlier period, Robinson and Godbey rely on data obtained from respondents who keep time budgets of activities as they unfold. While few may believe it, research based on careful records of how we actually spend our time shows that we average more than an hour more free time per day than in the 1960s. Yes, that includes the parts of our stories that don't make sense.
