The Arab

He has taught the History of the Arab-Israeli conflict for thirty five years, in various institutions, including Pomona College, CA, the University of Missouri-Kansas City, the University of California-Santa Barbara. While Israel was unprepared to relinquish the eastern half of Jerusalem which contained Judaism's holiest sites and which, despite the terms of the Israeli-Jordanian armistice agreement, had been entirely off limits to Israel for nearly nineteen years while Jordan desecrated dozens of synagogues in the Old City it was willing to exchange the seized territories for a comprehensive settlement.

Another opportunity for peace was spurned by the Palestinians in 2000-2001. Six months later, a peace accord was signed and the thirty-one-year state of war between Israel and Egypt came to an end. He looks both at high politics and general staff decision-making and at the nitty-gritty of combat in the battles that resulted in the emergence of the State of Israel and the humiliation of the Arab world--a humiliation that underlies the continued Arab antagonism toward Israel.

For over 140 years, Israelis, Palestinians, and scores of peacemakers have failed to establish a sustainable, mutually-acceptable solution.
