If someone, or a group become custodians of a churchyard what five key actions or augmentations would you most recommend and what two actions would you recommend against? The church itself dates to the 14th century, but it has a very Georgian character, thanks to extensive 18th-century remodelling. If you have carried out other new work as part of the conservation planning process — such as preparing a condition survey, commissioning further investigations or audits of your site, collection or building — include these reports in the appendices or a reference to where the material can be found. Manage it well Make sure that the conservation management plan you prepare or commission helps you care for the assets effectively by taking an active role in managing the conservation planning process.
