The Browning Automatic 5, most often Auto-5 or simply A-5, is a recoil-operated semi-automatic shotgun designed by John Browning. Most pump-action firearms use an integral tubular magazine, although some do use detachable box magazines. The gun was designed by John Browning patented in 1915, then redesigned by John Pederson, extending the patent deadline.

THE ITHACA GUN COMPANY FROM THE BEGINNING

By 1886, Leroy Smith and his brother-in-law, George Livermore, bought out the Baker interests and set up the Ithaca Gun Company.
