From placement to prison: The path to adolescent incarceration from child welfare supervised foster or group care

In addition, each youth will be assessed at the outset for their most critical needs, and both program staff and partners will provide pathways to essentials such as education, transportation, employment, counseling and life skills training. Although placement in the family structure can be an ideal permanency placement for a child that can offer family continuity, from a child's point of view living with a relative can be very different from returning home to his or her birth parents.

Peer relationships of foster children: Developmental and mental health service implications

As an attorney who has a general practice, I can honestly say that this area of law has the potential to be the most rewarding career choice an attorney can make simply because of the ability to help so many people in a short period of time. Rather than having the caseworker serve as the expert to determine what the family needs to do, the family is encouraged to come up with plans for what needs to be done.
