Up in Smoke: A History of Firefighting

By the time fled the city in July, the plague was killing about a week. The Great Fire started at the bakery of Thomas Farriner on Pudding Lane, shortly after midnight on Sunday, 2 September through until Wednesday 3 rd September 1666. The modern day Fire Brigade has evolved following many years of development and improvements since almost pre-history.

Up in Smoke: A History of Firefighting

Food shortage usually followed bad weather, particularly rain in late summer and autumn, so that the harvest rotted in the fields. For millenia, fire was essential to survival in one form or another.
