Sustainable Development and Population Dynamics: Placing People at the Centre

Family planning is not directly equivalent to foreign aid designed to promote exports, but its effects may be wider and last longer.

Population

Lowers Growth of Per Capita Income: Like a thief in the night, population growth robs us of most of the gains in national income made from higher investment.

Economic development

The lifetime opportunity cost related to adolescent pregnancy — a measure of the annual income a young mother misses out on over her lifetime — ranges from 1 per cent of annual gross domestic product in a large country such as China to 30 per cent of annual gross domestic product in a small economy such as Uganda.

Economic development

What better way to keep people from having babies and getting them to willfully submit to sterilization? As a result sufficient amount of foreign exchange to import materials, machines and equipment for our industries could not be made and this obstructed the growth of industrial output. Today, more than a billion people rely on international and internal migration to escape from poverty and conflict, adapt to environmental and economic shocks, and improve the income, health, and education of their families. Sustainability is another key challenge.

Smart Growth in Small Towns and Rural Communities

Although older people may have the advantage of experience, they are likely to be less energetic and enterprising. All the rest of the material on this site, such as pages, screens, and images, are under copyright by Population Research Institute.

Family Planning in Developing Countries: An Unfinished Success Story

Well its states in our constitution those that have the ability Government or Elite have the responsibility to take action.

A Look at How China Controls Its Population

Furthermore, over their lifetimes, women in these countries may spend the equivalent of 6 continuous years being pregnant and 23 years caring for children younger than six years old.
