The IWW organized more broadly than did the CIO or the Knights of labor. Washburn was born in Douglasville in 1900.

Industrial Unionism

The AFL supported the immediate objectives of most workers: better wages, hours, and working conditions. We are paid a wage for our time working, but the capitalist sells the product or service for more than what it costs to create and keeps the difference as profit. The local organization is broader and deeper, with less opportunity for employers to turn one group of workers against another.
