In this story, he quickly sees through what his client, Belle Adrian, is failing to tell him about her role in the murder but he takes on the case anyway. Seems only fitting since his most memorable role was as policeman Ken Williams for 64 episodes in the classic TV show Highway Patrol. Erle Stanley Gardner was one of my father's favourite writers.

Since then I've read all of the books and enjoyed them. The majority of pages are undamaged with minimal creasing or tearing, minimal pencil underlining of text, no highlighting of text, no writing in margins.

Perry Mason: The Case of the Angry Mourner

Having read the first two Perry Mason books in the lengthy series, I thought I would sample one more toward the middle. The suspects are Carlotta Adriani, whom Arthur was pursuing, and her mother, Bella. A struggle ensued and the girl left in a disheveled state with her blouse ripped.

This one starts with a brief description of the murder and what follows is mainly lawyering and deductive reasoning with Mason catching the perpetrator in a small lie. BTW, episode 21 Green-eyed Sister has the same four sponsored items, watching MeTV. CBS reinstated Talman only after Gardner himself weighed in, together with millions of viewers.
