The four-year consent decree also includes provisions requiring anti-discrimination training, reporting, and postings. On May 27, 2021, the District and the United States entered into an to resolve the compliance issues identified by the United States, including: ensuring students with disabilities receive supports they need to remain in school for the full day; developing policies and procedures for non-discriminatory abbreviated school day placements; and ensuring that all special education personnel, school counselors, and school psychologists receive training on appropriately responding to disability-related behaviors. However, such employee benefit plans or systems that measure earnings can't be used to justify a failure to hire applicants based on factors unrelated to their job performance ability.

Case Summaries

As a result of this decision, Parliament modernized Part XX.

House Passes Bill to Make Age

The punishment included removing the man from his crew and assigning him to perform menial tasks such as washing trucks and sweeping, rather than the oil field work that he had been hired to perform, and reducing his work hours, thereby reducing his income.

Racial Discrimination in the Courts: The Case of Marcus Robinson

Further, the agency's administrative investigation revealed that numerous Black female medical technicians at the hospital appear to have been required to perform assignments that their male Asian-Indian counterparts were allegedly not required to perform. Additionally, Hamilton Growers agreed to exercise good faith in hiring and retaining qualified workers of American national origin and African-American workers for all farm work positions, including supervisory positions; will implement non-discriminatory hiring measures, which include targeted recruitment and advertising, appointment of a compliance official, and training for positive equal employment opportunity management practices; will create a termination appeal process; extend rehiring offers to aggrieved individuals from the 2009-2012 growing seasons; provide transportation for American workers; and limit contact between the alleged discriminating management officials and American workers. On July 21, 1966, the United States initiated this lawsuit against the Richland Parish School District.
