Watch: Sky News Eco Propaganda Gets Ratioed on Twitter

It is hard to recall now just how sure almost everybody was in 2008 that natural gas was running out. If you have somehow missed the fact that April 22 is Earth Day, it's probably because you are grown up.

A tedious dollop of eco-propaganda

Various problems have been attributed to lengthened OCIs. I am totally proud of my heritage from the great founders of the Industrial Revolution with our great sky lighting Iron works, first railways, new coal mines, steel making, lead and silver works, revolutionary new high street Banks and ethical capitalism what happened to that? It has become such a wide-spread, trendy word that is seen so predominantly everywhere we go. Contemporary children are so drenched with eco-propaganda that it's almost a waste of resources.

BBC's David Attenborough Misleads Viewers About 'Toxic' Plastic

Scientists have carefully studied the bacteria found in the La Brea Tar Pits. Ethylene derived plastics go into everyday products, such as milk jugs, carpeting and fleece jackets.

Umberto Eco Makes a List of the 14 Common Features of Fascism

The really exciting stuff in the Science Museum, the things I remember from my own childhood visits, are elsewhere in the building.

Umberto Eco Makes a List of the 14 Common Features of Fascism

There is plenty of evidence relating to attitudes towards and behaviour on climate change, general environmental behaviour change and the whole issue of sustainable development communication. More to the point, all driven by the moral determination to improve living standards, working conditions, education and everything to enhance quality of life.

Scary Green Monsters

After all, the rocks themselves are — by definition — already soaked in toxic mixtures of oil and gas.

A tedious dollop of eco-propaganda
