History

But the Japanese fought back with a fury; vicious night fighting typified the next five days. In constant danger of being cut off, the 162d fought an unseen enemy until ordered to withdraw in late afternoon. In addition to the development and manufacture of aircraft in massive numbers, the Army Air Forces had to establish a global logistics network to supply, maintain, and repair the huge force; recruit and train personnel; and sustain the health, welfare, and morale of its troops.

Navy's drive across the Central Pacific and naturally disappointed MacArthur, who had argued for the seizure of Rabaul. The remaining emplacement, which had retarded the advance, was situated on the reverse slope, but Charlton charged his slope. His administration chose to invest in the Air Force, especially Strategic Air Command.
