Employment

The is determined by , not by agreement between the parties. In Flannery v Mount Carmel Medical Group, the employee resigned in October 1991 as she wanted a career break, she was later re-employed in August 1992. Some of my co-workers have been able to participate in similar programs, which is wonderful.

Continuity of Employment Sample Clauses

Prior to finding this option, I was extraordinarily stressed about my loans, as I know that many people in the mental health field are, so being able to participate in a program like this and to rid myself of student debt has and will continue to be life-changing for me. This clarifies that there would be a continuity of employment of an employee if there is a change of service provider and if the new service provider hires him or her within 13 weeks of change. As such, if an employer and employee attempt to artificially manipulate an individuals length of service for example by agreeing to bring one employment contract to an end and then immediately commencing another one that would be invalid.
