One of the primary themes of the novel is the struggle in the creative process that beset painter Lily Briscoe while she struggles to paint in the midst of the family drama. I have put these three qualities in the order of the importance I assigned to them. All of this danced up and down, like a company of gnats, each separate but all marvellously controlled in an invisible elastic net-- danced up and down in Lily's mind, in and about the branches of the pear tree, where still hung in effigy the scrubbed kitchen table, symbol of her profound respect for Mr Ramsay's mind.
