Author info: Philip Doddridge

Wills, vicar of Kingsthorpe, Northamptonshire, complained that one of his students had preached in a barn in his parish. Illustrations, Index, if any, are included in black and white. At the age of 49, he died of consumption TB and was buried in Lisbon, where he had been sent by his congregation in the hope of restoring his health.

Philip Doddridge

Fold-outs, if any, are not part of the book. Each page is checked manually before printing. If the original book was published in multiple volumes then this reprint is of only one volume, not the whole set.

Philip Doddridge (1702

This is NOT a retyped or an ocr'd reprint. The total number of his students was about two hundred; lists are given in the 'Correspondence' v.

Philip Doddridge

As this print on demand book is reprinted from a very old book, there could be some missing or flawed pages, but we always try to make the book as complete as possible. This is NOT a retyped or an ocr'd reprint.

Philip Doddridge

Owing to Doddridge's numerous engagements, 'all the business of the day' was thrown too late; and the students 'lived too well,' which was partly due to Doddridge's hospitality to visitors.

Philip Doddridge

While this study is thoroughly researched and helpful, there are a few areas in which it would be clearer in light of further interaction with seventeenth century thought.

Philip Doddridge (1702

This volume concludes the Gospel harmony begun in volume six, and contains the first half of Doddridge's study of the Acts of the Apostles. Let cheerful anthems fill His house, While to that sacred shrine I move. Doddridge was tall, slight, and extremely near-sighted.

Philip Doddridge (1702

By age 48, however, he was exhausted. The religious genius of Doddridge is seen at its best in the powerful addresses which make up his volume '1745. Also included is Doddridge's Family Expositor, his beloved Gospel harmony and multi-volume commentary on the New Testament.
