Comparing Colonial Education Discourses in the French and Portuguese African Empires: An Essay on Hybridization

Although it is often thought to be very old, nationalism did not become a great determining factor in history until the end of the 18th century. Many Europeans, particularly citizens of the so-called Great Powers Britain, France and Germany were convinced of the cultural, economic and military supremacy of their nation. For all its difficulty, however, more research of this sort is required if we are to have a fuller understanding of colonialism and nationalism in the lives of children.
