Dubray Books. Curiosities and Splendour: An Anthology of Classic Travel Literature

The world still searching its conscience? So day two fits with science and is in the correct order.

Splendour of Knowledge (Part 2)

. Hence in a season of calm weather Though inland far we be, Our souls have sight of that immortal sea Which brought us hither, Can in a moment travel thither, And see the children sport upon the shore, And hear the mighty waters rolling evermore.

Genesis And Science: More Aligned Than You Think?

Lines 15—19 When the narrator witnesses the power of the Arve River, he claims: I seem as in a trance sublime and strange To muse on my own separate phantasy, My own, my human mind, which passively Now renders and receives fast influencing, Holding an unremitting interchange With the clear universe of things around; Lines 35—40 He realises that knowledge is a combination of sensory perceptions and the ideas of the mind. Your endowments have refused to dry, despite the struggle of selfish oracles to tap you dry. Nothing further from the truth.

Mont Blanc (poem)

Wahid and Iblis walked through the hole in the wall, and into another world. Either way, it was written over 4000 years ago.

Where is it now, the glory and the dream? The poem is dedicated to Chibok girls of Nigeria who were kidnapped by Boko Haram, in April 2014 ©Bharati Nayak, Bhubaneswar, Odisha, India 36. Tear Tells A Tale Tear from the land of Nigeria Tells a story of pain A story of being chained Chained in her body and soul Soul of a beautiful girl Girl of such tender age Being separated From her loving family And kept away in some dungeon Tear tells a story How she wishes to be freed And get back to the warm hugs Of her parents and siblings Keeping the fire of hope kindling Tear awaits some angels Awaits for the day When they will be coming Keeping the fire of hope kindling She wishes the story To have a happy ending. Keats-Shelley Journal 48 1999 : 22—29.

As a set, these books have a lot going for them in terms of setting and style, and some good characters, though I never felt as engaged with them as I think I should have.

Sony BBC Earth's new Couch Travel Anthology will take you from Japan to Russia, Turkey, the Caribbean, Cuba, Burma and Colombia

Christ, Moses, and Mohammad all rested, so why not God? Long years, fewer, but the hardly necessary multiple conquests.
