Camp Shanks, a War Memorial

As a staging area, Shanks lacked the training facilities the army traditionally used to keep soldiers busy, so top brass sought other means to prevent idle soldiers from brooding over the perils awaiting them across the pond. But both provisions must be given effect if possible, and they both can be given effect by reading Section 313 as applying to the removal of buildings on land not under the control of the Administrator and of buildings on property excepted by the terms of Section 604.

Camp Shanks (historical) (in Rockland County, NY)

The USO provided numerous diversions for soldiers on the eve of deployment. He says, moreover, that Section 313 is not mandatory in respect to acute housing shortages but lodges in him merely a discretionary power where he finds an acute shortage.
