Hostage in Peking Plus

The British had an easier time of it, approaching and passing through their gate, the Shawo or Guangqui, with virtually no opposition. On 28 August, the foreign armies in Peking — swelled in numbers by the arrival of soldiers from Germany, Italy and Austria and additional troops from France — marched through the Forbidden City to demonstrate symbolically their complete control of Peking. Edited with introduction, Chinese anti-foreignism and the Boxer uprising, by L.
