With reference to Ashman's report witness was not aware that he had not reported all gas which he had found.

Abram Colliery Explosion

The amount of water admitted to, or released from, the hydraulic cylinder can be varied to any degree by simply adjusting the inlet and outlet valves, and as the feed depends entirely on that amount it follows that it can be adjusted to the greatest nicety. Owen, before swearing the jury, addressing himself to Mr.

Taking into account the absence of fire damp on the 14th January in the disused stalls when the men examined them, and the fact that when the ventilation had only been partially restored, no fire damp was found in any of the finished stalls, there was little reason to believe that there was an accumulation there at the time of the explosion. The total number of bodies brought out of the pit was forty-one and of those brought out of the pit alive seven subsequently died from their injuries which brought the final toll to forty-eight of which over half were men under 30 years of age mostly from the Park Lane and Westleigh areas. .

There was also an official at the station to give information to the men passing, but an exceptional case might occur of a man passing without being warned. Mine safety, job security, and general working conditions also were contentious issues. Two Grand Performances of the 'ELIJAH Will be given ON MONDAY, MAY 6th, 1890, AT THE DRILL HALL, ORIFFITHSTOWN AND ON TUESDAY, MAY 6th, AT THE TOWN HALL, PONTYPOOL.

It will thus be seen that it is impossible to entertain a hope that the number of persons who have perished will be under 135. The Coroner and jury then left the room, and proceeded to visit the houses of the deceased. Until a large quantity of the rubbish has been removed, two bodies must be brought out only one at a time, dragged through a small opening which has been made for some distance through the falls.
