Concentrated urine facilitates testing and improves accuracy for metals with the lowest levels.

Heavy metal toxicity: An update of chelating therapeutic strategies

The optimal dosing is unknown, and some clinicians follow the treatment guidelines established for lead see Chapter 73.

Heavy metal toxicity: An update of
chelating therapeutic strategies

A serious limitation of 24-hour urine collection is lack of patient compliance.
This program has consisted of identification of housing that may have lead paint and education of the public and physicians to the dangers of lead poisoning.
