The Trinity and God the Creator

God the Father is not able to be without the Son and yet He does not depend on the Son, nor is omnipotence able to exist without the possibility of creatures and still it does not depend on this possibility. And this is also the very difficulty of the doctrine not some unsolvable trigonometric equation where 3 equals 1 : believing, receiving, and understanding that God Himself is love, and is so to the extent that he loved us enough to become one of us and to lay his life down for us.

The Trinity In Creation

This emphatic repetition of the article cannot be explained except by the real distinction between the persons. Order is mechanistic, and what does not manifest itself in a mechanistic fashion becomes just so far a matter of disorder.

The Trinity In Creation

Although those things which the Scripture speaks of here are intimately united, they are really distinct; the substance of bread is not its quantity, but they are intimately united. But that generation which is proper to living beings is the origin of a living being from a conjoined living being, that is, from the father and not from the grandfather, through the active communication of the nature of the generator in the likeness of at least the specific nature. The third objection was that to proceed from another was repugnant to God as the first principle.

Trinity & Creation

This leads us to the second beautiful point from Ratzinger: ...Any doctrine of the Trinity, therefore, cannot aim at being a perfect comprehension of God. If the Father, antecedent to all consideration of our minds, is not the Son, then they are really distinct; and if the Father and the Son are not the Holy Ghost, they are really distinct from Him.

The Trinity and Creation

Eden is always heading towards the New Jerusalem. Thomas is based on the fact that it is a property of an intellectual nature to produce a word.

Creation Is the Work of the Trinity

He is the One who enables each person and all of us to trust Jesus. From various codices and from the Fathers it appears that this text is authentic, and its authenticity is admitted by almost all critics, not only Catholics but also the Protestant liberals. Individually: the persons of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost.

Participating in God: Creation and Trinity

Thomas intend to say that a word is produced in every intellection? The Protestant theologians mentioned above say that the mystery of the Trinity is an enigma without meaning for our interior life, but the traditional theologians say that in this mystery of the Trinity we come to some knowledge of the most perfect intellectual life, that is in the three persons, who in the same divine truth live by the same act of pure intelligence which is subsisting intelligence itself. For in Him were all things created in heaven, and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominations or principalities or powers: all things were created by Him and in Him. In this way the divinity of the Word is proclaimed.
