Rumour: KeliosFR teases Pokemon Direct next month

I finally got it all together and they told me the day of the surgery that he might not make it. She has stopped knuckling, going for short walks and trotting some. I was in the exact same situation 4 weeks ago with my 9 years old German Shepherd Monty.

I didnt expect that and was heart broken. . .cried for 2 days. Saturday morning she had a seizure, another Saturday afternoon, we took her to the emergency vet and they gave her a blood transfusion. We were asked to find a larger suitable dog in the event blade would need blood donating? She is having post-surgery heart arrhythmia issues that we hope resolve themselves, but otherwise she is clearly getting better each day.

Her appetite is slowly returning. Has anyone encountered this before? All in all, considering that is could have spread everywhere, we are very grateful! I took him to the vet and he was diagnosed with a UTI and we went home.

The Spleen: What does it do and how will my dog manage if it has to be removed?

He was put on 22 steroids tablets a day, but then his tummy went so big, his breathing rapid and he passed away last saturday the 30th november. Would I really want to put him through chemo if all it will do is give him me! As soon as I saw the white gums, it was off to the ER at 1:00 AM! Reading everything on here has given me great hope for our 7yr old Beagle Maggie.

They simply tell me I will have to wait for the path results to get back but I can readmit him to the hospital. Where can I take him? Blood work looked good, liver values also fine.

The vet said there was no way; he saw it, and had them repeat the test. He shows no signs of being ill, but during a teeth cleaning while he was under the vet noticed a lump. At 2:50 she smelled poop and went to see why.
