Saints & Scholars: Tweeting Saints in Medieval Irish Martyrologies

Limerick: The Thomond Archaeology Society, 102-126. Annals of the Kingdom of Ireland by the Four Masters. Truth be told, it was actually a combination of all the above occurring within a placename containing the Old Irish word i.

Omnium Sanctorum Hiberniae: Feastdays of the saints: A history of Irish martyrologies

Having now watched it twice since it opened very enjoyable, back to old form, fan pleasing etc I would like to record some initial thoughts on the cinematic depiction of the island, including to my mind, some echos of early Irish Christian iconography as well as the use of actual medieval archaeology to portray the fictional archaeology of the Jedi.

Féchin of Fore

There are no upstanding remains of any buildings at the site. In one of the legends contained in the Acts of St , , it is told that Eithne and her sister were visited by this venerable saint.

The Annals of Ulster, at 711, and the Four Masters, at 710, record the death of Coeddi, bishop of Ia, or Iona.

Martyrologies

Indeed, almost as soon as he crossed the River Shannon, traveling from Leinster, he would have caught sight of it several times in the distance. Below you will find the programme. The circulation in Ireland of the martyrologies of Ado and Usuard, on which the later Roman Martyrology is based, is also examined.
