Consecranda : the rite observed in some of the principal functions of the Roman Pontifical and the Roman Ritual : Schulte, A. J. (Augustine Joseph), 1856

Then he enters the baptistery and so do the sponsors with the child. And having been taken into the family of your faithful, may they finally attain the everlasting reward which you have promised; through Christ our Lord. As in Adam all sinned and were penalized with God's curse-he, his posterity, and the entire cosmos which was summed up in him, so in Christ shall all be redeemed and made a new creation.

The Roman Ritual, Part I

The priest, vested in surplice and purple stole or even a cope of the same color, comes to the altar steps with his assistants.

The lector reads from the ambo the readings that precede the Gospel. God, who led your servant, Abraham out of Ur of the Chaldeans, and kept him safe in all his wanderings; may it please you, we pray, also to watch over these servants of yours. The ambo must be located in keeping with the design of each church in such a way that the ordained ministers and lectors may be clearly seen and heard by the faithful.

The Roman Ritual, Part I

Then he himself receives the sign of peace from the priest and may offer it to those other ministers who are closer to him. Everything being provided for and the name approved, with the one who is to be baptized, if a child, resting on the right arm of the person holding it, the pastor proceeds with the baptism according to the rite which follows.

The Roman Ritual, Part I

Whenever the Bishop is present at a Mass where the people are gathered, it is most fitting that he himself celebrate the Eucharist and associate priests with himself as concelebrants in the sacred action. All: As it was in the beginning.
