Woodrow Wilson's Declaration of Neutrality

The Battle of the Somme had also recently ended, and British casualties on the first day.

Wilson Speech to Congress, January 22, 1917

You must remember that I, as Commander in Chief, was responsible for sending our soldiers to Europe. While Wilson won the 1919 Nobel Peace Prize for his Fourteen Points, he was disappointed by the punitive atmosphere of Versailles. This attitude permeated Western society and politics in the years preceding World War II.

Reassessing Woodrow Wilson, Crusader President

Other laws regulated business and stopped child labor. And he was one of the most tragic. No other single act will serve as this will serve to restore confidence among the nations in the laws which they have themselves set and determined for the government of their relations with one another.

Woodrow Wilson

Have we not been told day by day for the last nine months that the Senate of the United States, a coordinate part of the treaty-making power, should accept this league as it was written because the wise men sitting in Versailles had so written it, and has not every possible influence and every source of power in public opinion been organized and directed against the Senate to compel it to do that thing? Too much experience with a tragic world can tempt leaders and citizens to seek refuge in withdrawal, appeasement, or utopianism. We have joined in alliance with all the European nations which have thus far joined the league, and all nations which may be admitted to the league. Nixon, admired him, and George W.

Woodrow Wilson's Declaration of Neutrality

Wilson attended Davidson College for one year and later transferred to Princeton University, graduating with the class of 1879.
