The Welfare Effects of Single Rooms in German Nursing Homes: A Structural Approach

The systems of doctoral education in East and West Germany closely resembled each other; both countries doctoral students were predominately employed at the chairs directly; graduate schools played a minor role. For economics and business, we can observe a high popularity of a small number of topics in East Germany before the reunification such as topic 11. Therefore, we include university dummies as the second set of topical prevalence variables in our topic model.
