Innate idea

While no inductive inference is valid, this does not imply that they cannot be reasonable.

Journal of the History of Ideas

But in any case, whereas heaven is in general thought of as a realm in which people experience the bliss of perfect fellowship and harmony with God and with each other, hell is in general thought of as a realm in which people experience the greatest possible estrangement from God, the greatest possible sense of alienation, and perhaps also an intense hatred of everyone including themselves. So why, one may ask, do so many Augustinians, despite their commitment to a retributive theory of punishment, insist that God could justly condemn even infants on account of their supposedly inherited guilt? Causation and Laws of Nature in Early Modern Philosophy. University of Minnesota Press, Minneapolis, Minnesota, 1983.
