Around 1910 Jarvis further expanded his Burlington businesses to open the Jarvis Palace Garage with his son De Alton Matthew Jarvis on South Winooski Avenue for automobile parts and repair. Although Warner obtained his first patent in 1893 it appears that he used this design only generally in the initial production of his spouts. And in fact, we have done just so — we are one of the largest maple syrup providers in the world and have approximately 25% of the world maple syrup market.

Maples of the World by Van Gelderen, D.M.;De Jong, P.C.;Oterdoom, H.J.: Good Hard Cover (1994)

Virtually every species and named variety of maple known to horticulture is represented here.

Meet the (Northwest) Maples!

Most are when young and are often riparian, understory, or pioneer species rather than climax overstory trees. In some areas, this tree is known as the planetree maple. Late 19th century postcard image of a large tapered wooden sap gathering tank pulled by oxen on a sled.
