Its high dynamic range allows the player to produce powerful accents with vigorous strokes and a thundering crack 120+ dB when strokes are used. .

Snazzier Snares In Logic

Sure, we need metalwork such as hi-hats and cymbals to embellish the rhythm, and toms provide needed variation for fills and other effects, but it is the bass and snare combination that provides the drive and 'oomph' of most percussion tracks.

Synthesizing Drums: The Snare Drum

THANK YOU FOR SHOPPING WITH US!!! Each type presents a different style of percussion and size. This is almost certainly sufficient to produce a snare-like sound, but if we want to be sophisticated, we can put in the sound-generating mechanism from Figure 6 to that in Figure 14.
