Scholars need documentation outside the state and critical perspectives on official records to form the historical imagination at points of articulation between state institutions and agrarian communities.

Assessing the Impact of the COVID

When the sun is most unrelenting, bandits are desperate and feed off travellers on the road -- this is a popular theme from ancient Tamil literature that rings true today in the tales of Chambal Valley gangs who rob passing trains, and in the tales of Phoolan Devi. The accumulated wisdom of farmers, patriarchs, astrologers, almanacs, sutras, scientists, old sayings, magicians, holy men, textbooks, scientists, extension officers, radio, and TV pundits all come into play. Any loss or accumulation represents the yield of the past.

Regularities form within natural landscapes and interconnected agrarian activities articulate variously self-conscious social powers that organise agriculture in the circumscribed spaces that we can call agrarian territory. Rain forest, evergreen, covered the Western Ghats historically, and much of it remains. Agrarian history is informed most copiously by the records and other traces including the sculpting of the land itself that territorial institutions leave behind.

Therefore, the wide mosquito vector diversity and the potential for mosquito vectors to adapt in deep-forests and forest-fringes, in addition to the movement of susceptible humans to and from the forest, provide ideal conditions for sustained and novel transmission.

Agrarian Unrest in Southeast Asia

The latest rallies have drawn tens of thousands of people to locations around the country, as a wave of sympathy grows for the young protesters along with anger at government tactics. Agriculture co-ordinates heaven and earth. People enjoy the cool of December and January.

But with predictable regularity, food becomes more costly as labour is let loose from the farm in the hot season. Where applicable, MeSH terms for communicable disease, SE Asia, land-use and agriculture were also used.

The E-value represents the strength of association an unmeasured confounder would need to have with both the treatment and outcome to fully explain away a specific risk factor-outcome association. This variety parallels the great variety of social formations, which combine tribal and caste elements more widely and intensely than anywhere in South Asia. Moving labour onto a particular bit of farmland in each season is an activity that occurs within wide movements of labour, and all these nested geographies of labour mobility are not necessarily confined by the village or by political boundaries that appear on ordinary maps.
