Law on the Freedom of the Press of 29 July 1881

Truth of the defamatory statement is available as a defence in most libel cases other than those concerning the privacy of the plaintiff.

TIMEP Brief: Press Freedom in Egypt

In 1872, 3,800 periodical publications were published in France; a decade later, aided by the freedoms granted in 1881, that figure had expanded to 6,000. Well, it turns out that those laws got articles that will give the state a true full control of the Media and Social media.

Law on the Freedom of the Press of 29 July 1881

The French parliament further amended the Press Law in 2004 to make it a crime to discriminate against or defame individuals on the basis of their sexual orientation. As in other civil law legal systems, government law in Egypt is considered to be embodied in legal texts, such as codes and statutes. The law provides a number of defences, particularly when reporting on matters of public interest or concern.

TIMEP Brief: The Law Regulating the Press, Media, and the Supreme Council for Media Regulation

It is a trust that should respect all liberties and virtues of the Egyptian family.

Al

With writers including Najib Gharghur and Najib al-Haddad, the monthly publication included literature, humorous content, intellectual content, and later political content; the last category prompted its shutdown in 1890. However, several people have been detained for insulting , state institutions and during pro-democracy protests, as well as government officials in cases of abuse by the security services.

Egypt: 2018 Law on the Organisation of Press, Media and the Supreme Council of Media

The first was when the Voice of the Arabs began a series of broadcasts in 1955 that called for Jordanian citizens to campaign against their countries involvement in Baghdad Pact and against their governments close involvement with.
