Federal Circuit Appeals: An Overview

Senior judges in the 9th Circuit are also empowered to call for a vote for en banc review of any case, even cases in which they were not on the three-judge panel that originally decided the appeal. Several circuits permit a non-member attorney to file briefs and motions, membership being required only at the time of oral argument.

About Federal Judges

So when panels disagree, which is not often in any event, there is a ready way to settle the law once and for all by bringing the issue to the Supreme Court. It should contain the judgment, order or decision in question, along with any opinion, memorandum, findings or conclusion supporting it. The Third Circuit holds the of any federal circuit in the country — 20% fewer than the next lowest circuit.
