George Edward Woodberry Biography, Quotes, Works and Writings

We could not understand, that is to say, we could not have understood, had the notion of this primum mobile ever obtruded itself; we could not have understood in what manner it might be made to further the objects of humanity, either temporal or eternal.

Woodberry Poetry Room

It may seem strange that in spite of the continual anxiety occasioned me by the rivalry of Wilson, and his intolerable spirit of contradiction, I could not bring myself to hate him altogether. And, while gradually these conceits took possession of my mind, the lazy brook had borne me, inch by inch, around one promontory, and within full view of another that bounded the prospect at the distance of forty or fifty yards.

feelings of disgust and annoyance rose into the bitterness of hatred, I avoided the creature; a certain sense of shame, and the remembrance of my former deed of cruelty, preventing me from physically abusing it.

Homeward Bound by George Edward Woodberry

One seeks to recall the original beauty of the country, by adapting its means to the surrounding scenery; cultivating trees in harmony with the hills or plain of the neighboring land; detecting and bringing into practice those nice relations of size, proportion, and color which, hid from the common observer, are revealed everywhere to the experienced student of nature. It was open - wide, wide open - and I grew furious as I gazed upon it. About this Item: Sagwan Press, United States, 2015.
