Former Notre Dame Fighting Irish players write letters to late coach Ara Parseghian

Parseghian died on August 2, 2017, at his home in , at the age of 94. She was Amelia Bonneau, whose mother died of typhoid fever when she was 9. His influence continued to shape my life long after my football playing days ended.

Ara's Knights: Ara Parseghian and the Golden Era of Notre Dame Football by Frank Pomarico, Ray Serafin, Paperback

Brown, who was commissioned as a Navy lieutenant during World War II, has often been called the father of modern football. Duranko and Snowden enjoyed pro careers thanks to the switch, with Duranko also earning All-America honors as a member of the fearsome defensive-line foursome that helped the Irish win the 1966 national title. He started every day by reading three newspapers -- the South Bend Tribune, Chicago Tribune and Chicago Sun-Times -- at a coffee shop at 5 o'clock in the morning.
