Audley End: The stunning Essex country house with an unexpected link to Henry VIII

The stables area is great and the lake waterfall and gardens are so well kept. Additionally, I really enjoyed buying the apples from the estate.

Audley End House in Essex brought back to former splendour for 2015

Some frames will be replaced if they are beyond repair. We arrived and parked in a car park and walked over to two empty kiosks - not a member of staff in sight?! Extensive works to the house were undertaken by Christopher Wren 1632-1723 but successive monarchs showed little interest in the property which in 1701 was returned to the Howards and settled on Henry, Earl of Bindon who assumed the title of sixth Earl of Suffolk in 1708.

Audley End House and Gardens

To the east of Audley End House is open parkland well scattered with mature trees.

Heritage Live

For the Audley End presentations, Harvey had prepared a series of lectures to be delivered to prominent members of the court in attendance with the Queen.

Audley End House and Gardens

The details in the wood carvings and the paintings collection is intriguing and you just do not know where to look next.

Great British Houses: Audley End

I was a little surprised that my concession fee was so high at £18. The 12th-century manor house was a largely quiet home to a group of Benedictine monks, until the actions of Henry VIII changed everything.
